

Rescue Trafficking and the New Gospel of Adoption: A Must-Read for the Modern Christian

Human trafficking is a global crisis that affects millions of people every year. It is a form of modern-day slavery that involves the illegal trade of human beings for the purpose of exploitation. Traffickers prey on vulnerable individuals, often women and children, who are then forced into prostitution, labor, or other forms of abuse.

The sex trade is a major driver of human trafficking. Traffickers often target young women and girls who are lured into the trade with promises of a better life. These women and girls are then subjected to horrific abuse and exploitation. They are often forced to work long hours in dangerous conditions, and they are often beaten, raped, and sold to multiple customers.

The Church has a unique role to play in combating human trafficking. As a community of faith, we are called to love our neighbors and to protect the vulnerable. We can do this by raising awareness of the issue, supporting organizations that are working to rescue trafficking victims, and by advocating for policies that protect the rights of trafficking survivors.

Rescue Trafficking and the New Gospel of Adoption is a powerful book that exposes the dark underbelly of the sex trade and reveals the role of the Church in combating this modern-day slavery. Author Sarah E. Fraser draws on her own experience working with trafficking survivors to provide a firsthand account of the horrors that these women and girls endure. She also offers a biblical perspective on the issue, arguing that the Church is called to be a beacon of hope for trafficking victims.

Rescue Trafficking and the New Gospel of Adoption is a must-read for anyone who is concerned about the issue of human trafficking. It is a powerful call to action, inspiring readers to join the fight for freedom and restoration.
